Shawnee Choir To Entertain

THE Shawnee Choir will provide the entertainment for the Stroudsburg Lions Club's 35th anniversary on Tuesday night. The Choir, under the direction of Dr. Earl Willhoite, is composed of 27 volunteer singers. It was organized in 1955 for the specific purpose of making reference recordings. The choir is endeavoring to make the choice of new choral materials easier and more accurate.

With all of the artists, the Shawnee Choir is an "after Hours" activity, coming at the end of a full day's work in other fields. They meet one night each week

Normally, the schedule is to rehearse and record one number at each session, using any time left over for reading through upcoming selections.

The choir has recorded 10 albums and is currently working on two additional albums. The titles of the two most recent albums are "Songs of Worship" and "Now Hear

Sports Car Rallies Okay

HARRISBURG (AP)-Pennsylvania's state police commissioner says a new law banning drag racing won't interfere with sports car rallies in the state. This law was aimed at the socalled hot rodders who without permission or proper supervision take over the highways for dangerous drag races," Col. Frank J. McCartney said yesterday.

The drag racing bill passed the 1958 legislature-and was signed by Gov. Lawrence-despite opponents' objections that it would prohibit sports car and soap box der-

In signing the measure, the Governor said Attorney General Anne X. Alpern's interpretation was that the act would not interfere with these type events.

Over the years, sports car rallies have become more popular in the state.

"These rallies are properly sanctioned and are conducted after receiving approval from proper state officials," said McCartney. McCartney said the groups are required to get a permit from the highways department to rope off a particular section of highway for any proposed sports car rally. Wyckoff Shopper

Chatting with Helen Marshall, in the WVPO office, it occurred to me that the stationery department of our store is actually a gift center for the family . . . so please don't overlook it when you are Valentine shop-

There, of course, you'll find Valentine cards of every mood and depth of sentiment for general mailing and for those very "special" folks like Mother, Father, Sweetheart, Grandchildren, and such. There too your children will find inexpensive packages of Valentines for posting in the schoolroom Valentine box.

Gift ideas are boundless. In the stationery department we not only have something for everyone, but enchanting papers, and ribbons with which to wrap it, as well as cute novelties to tie into the bow.

For every member of the family from school age on, there are automatic pencils and pens of varied types, to say nothing of stationery on which to use them. For the student there are notebooks, scrapbooks, Viewmaster projectors and reels, memo books or "DATE" books, whichever the age category, desk sets, desk calendars, typewriters, globes, magnifying glasses, and many of the world's great classics published in the Modern Library series. For children there are various games and puzzles

(tougher jigsaws for oldsters) and special books of story, rhyme, prayer, and education. For Dad and Mother there are all types of books, including the Bible which should, of course, have an important place in all Christian households. Even decorating for Valentine's Day can be simplified by a visit to our stationery department. We have some of the largest, most pulsating red hearts you've ever seen, cut from cardboard, and ready to hang anywhere you wish.

That is, we DID have all these things a few days ago. When something is seasonal and attractive, I can't be sure it will stay in stock long. It very seldom happens that way!

Two of my special friends here at Wyckoff's had birthdays within the last few days. Dottie Dunn's birthday was last Saturday; Betty Bartholomew's was Tuesday, and the two together didn't look a day older!

They are not the only two who have been showered with pretty packages. So was Charita DeYoung, secretary to Jess Pierson, when the Wyckoff-Sears girls feted her last Monday evening at a covered dish supper. Among her gifts were pretty lingerie, a floor lamp, an Heirloom bedspread, a blanket, a chest of drawers, a Wagner sweeper for use between vacuumings, and a shimmering silver platter from the girls in our silver department.

The following day, Jo Ailes of our payroll office received presents in observance of a rather less-happy occasion: Jo enters the hospital this weekend. Her gaily wrapped bundles produced a quilted aqua nylon robe, slippers, and a lovely nightie.

It seems to me my Wyckoff co-wokers have adopted the slogan, "It's more blessed to give than to receive," as their very own. Or maybe, since Wyckoff co-workers were also recipients, the slogan that covers the situation more aptly is, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."
